KONE's January-June 2017 review

Henrik Ehrnrooth, President and CEO:

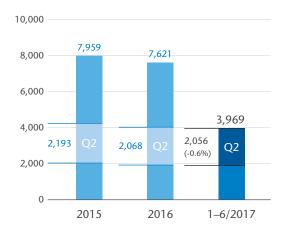

"I am pleased that our orders received returned to growth at comparable exchange rates during the second quarter. This was a result of a solid development in EMEA and the Americas and a stabilization of our orders received in China. Sales growth was again driven by EMEA and the Americas, and the rate of decline eased in Asia-Pacific. The service business continued to develop positively, although the sales growth was somewhat below trend in the second quarter. New equipment sales was stable year-on-year at comparable exchange rates. As expected, higher raw material prices, price pressure witnessed in our Chinese new equipment business and increased R&D and IT spend burdened our operating income in the second quarter. However, we were able to partly compensate for the intensified headwinds with the growth in our service business, focused pricing actions as well as productivity improvements. I'm also pleased that our strong execution and healthy business fundamentals have resulted in solid cash flow again this year. I would like to thank all KONE employees for their good work and commitment to drive continuous improvement in the current challenging environment.

During the second quarter, we conducted our annual customer loyalty survey, which showed good improvement in all businesses. The results show that the strategic actions we have taken are driving us in the right direction. Based on the feedback, customers appreciate the competence and service mindset of our personnel as well as the quality of our products and services in particular. This feedback also reflects the results of the employee survey which indicated continued high level of engagement. Achieving our long term strategic targets would not be possible without satisfied customers and engaged employees. The results from both surveys show that we are developing in the right direction.

We have again specified our business outlook for 2017. We now expect sales to grow by 1–3% at comparable rates, and the operating income to be in the range of EUR 1,200–1,280 million, assuming that translation exchange rates would remain at the average level of January–June 2017. We will continue to work hard to compensate for the profitability headwinds we are facing this year, and to keep our orders received growing."

The objective of KONE's personnel strategy is to help the company meet its business targets. Its goals are to further secure the availability, engagement, motivation and continuous development of the company's personnel. All of KONE's activities are guided by ethical principles which include safeguarding employees' rights and responsibilities such as the right to a safe and healthy working environment, personal well-being as well as the prohibition of any kind of discrimination.

KONE's new strategy, Winning with Customers, which focuses on putting the needs of our customers and users at the center of all development at KONE in order to drive differentiation, was launched in January 2017. People are key to the new strategy's success, which requires us to develop and obtain new competences in the fields of digitalization, partnering, understanding customers' businesses and project management. Strategy communications started during January-March 2017 and the strategy has been well received across KONE countries.

One of the new focus areas in the new phase of the strategy is collaborative innovation and new competences. During April-June 2017, KONE launched a new leadership competency framework that focuses on the ability to take an outsidein perspective, learning agility, leading change as well as talent and diversity building. The new framework captures both managing the present as well as building capabilities for the future. It has already been implemented into KONE's multirater leadership assessment tool globally. KONE also launched a learning program for service managers and the first Leading Operations -program for Operations Directors was com-

> KONE's annual employee engagement survey was completed during the first quarter of 2017 with a record of 93% of KONE's personnel responding to the survey. Highlights included the continued high scores on indicators measuring safety, employee training and career development. The overall employee engagement scores saw a slight decline, but remained at a good level. According to KONE's environmental targets for 2017-2021, we aim to be the leading provider of low-carbon People Flow® solutions with efficient low-carbon operations. Our Environmental Excellence program supports the ongoing transformation of the built environment into smart eco-cities, low-carbon communities, and net zero energy buildings.

During the first quarter of 2017, KONE was recognized as a leading supplier for action on climate change by CDP (Carbon Disclosure Project). In addition to achieving a top position on CDP's global A List of climate change disclosure and performance in late 2016, KONE was now awarded a position on CDP's global Supplier A List for the second year running. The Supplier A List includes the best 3% of companies responding at the request of 89 multinational purchasers, including KONE's customers.

In April 2017 KONE published its Sustainability Report 2016, which follows the Global Reporting Initiative G4 guidelines when applicable. The most significant environmental achievements in 2016 included the reduction in greenhouse gas emissions from the company's own operations. Compared to 2015, KONE's carbon footprint relative to net sales decreased by 4.1%, with sales growth calculated at comparable exchange rates. KONE's target is to reduce the carbon > by 3%. KONE's 2016 absolute operational carbon footprint amounted to 311,000 tons of carbon dioxide equivalent (2015: 310,500; figure restated). The carbon footprint of scope 1 and 2 greenhouse gas emissions relative to net sales decreased by 5.4%. In absolute terms, the scope 1 and 2 carbon footprint decreased by 0.6%. The most significant part of KONE's operational carbon footprint is related to logistics, the vehicle fleet, and electricity consumption. The major achievements in > footprint relative to net sales annually

the reduction of our carbon footprint in 2016 were related to improvements in the energy efficiency, particularly in the use of green electricity. The share of green electricity used at KONE facilities increased to 28% in 2016 (2015: 19%). KONE's greenhouse gas reporting has been assured by an objective third party.

During the second quarter of 2017, KONE New Zealand achieved carboNZero™ certification by Enviro-Mark Solutions as the first elevator company in New Zealand and globally. The certification acknowledges KONE New Zealand's efforts to measure its greenhouse gas emissions as well as its commitment to managing and reducing them and neutralizing the remaining emissions.

Other events

In 2007 a decision was issued by the European Commission concerning alleged local anticompetitive practices before early 2004 in Germany, Luxembourg, Belgium and the Netherlands by leading elevator and escalator companies, including KONE's local subsidiaries. Also, the Austrian Cartel Court issued in 2007 a decision concerning anticompetitive practices that had taken place before mid-2004 in local Austrian markets by leading elevator and escalator companies, including KONE's local subsidiary. As announced by KONE earlier, a number of civil damage claims by certain companies and public entities, relating to the two 2007 decisions, are pending in related countries. The claims have been made against various companies concerned by the decisions, including certain KONE companies. All claims are independent and are progressing procedurally at different stages. The total capital amount claimed jointly and severally from all of the defendants together was EUR 234 million at the end of June 2017 (March 31, 2017: EUR 234 million). KONE's position is that the claims are without merit. No provision has been made.

Most significant risks

KONE is exposed to risks that may arise from its operations or changes in the operating environment. The risk factors described below can potentially have an adverse effect on KONE's business operations and financial position and, as a result, on the value of the company. Other risks, which are currently either unknown or considered immaterial to KONE may, however, become material in the future.

Strategic risks

A weakening of the global economic environment could result in a deterioration of the market environment and the competitive situation in the industry. In particular, a stronger than anticipated decline or a prolonged weakness of the construction market could result in a significant decline in the new equipment market and a more challenging market environment for services. In particular, a sustained market decline in China, which accounts for approximately 30% of KONE's sales, could have an adverse effect on KONE's growth and profitability.

Digitalization, and the resulting new customer requirements as well as potential new competition, ecosystems and business models, could have a significant impact on the elevator and escalator industry. A failure to anticipate or address changes in the external market environment could result in a deterioration of KONE's growth, competitiveness, market share or profitability.

KONE operates in an industry with various local regulatory requirements. Sudden or unanticipated changes in regulations, equipment codes or standards may result in a need for process or technology adjustments, which could adversely impact KONE's profit development in affected countries. In addition, an increase in geopolitical tensions or a rise in regulatory protectionism could result in more challenging market conditions in affected countries. Such developments could have an adverse impact on KONE's operations.

A significant part of KONE's component suppliers and global supply capacity is located in China, both in the elevator and in the escalator business. Therefore KONE's operations may be adversely impacted by changes in trade agreements or introduction of restrictions to trade.

Operational risks

As one of the leading companies in the industry, KONE has a strong brand and reputation, meaning that reputation or brand issues could have an impact on KONE's business and financial performance. Such reputation risks could materialize e.g. in the case of an incident or a product quality issue. Issues with product integrity or quality could also have an impact on KONE's financial performance.

KONE operates in certain high growth markets, where focused management of rapid business growth is required. This applies in particular to the availability of skilled personnel, the adequate supply of components and materials, and the ability to ensure the quality of delivered products and services. Failure to adequately manage resourcing, quality of delivery, or other critical aspects in projects, could have an adverse impact on KONE's profitability.

KONE's business activities are dependent on the uninterrupted operation, quality and reliability of its manufacturing facilities, sourcing channels, operational service solutions and logistics processes. KONE's operations also utilize information technology extensively and its business is dependent on the quality and availability of information. Thus, in addition to physical risks, KONE is exposed to cyber security risks as operational information systems and products may be vulnerable to interruption, loss of data or malfunctions which can result in disruptions in processes and equipment availability and therefore impact KONE's business. Such cyber incidents could be caused by, including but not limited to, cyber-attacks, computer malware, denial of service attacks, fraudulent attempts and data breaches.

The majority of components used in KONE's supply chain are sourced from external suppliers, which exposes KONE to component price risk as well as raw material price risk. Therefore stronger than anticipated increases in raw material and component prices may have a significant impact on KONE's profitability.

Financial risks

The majority of KONE's sales is denominated in other currencies than the euro, which exposes KONE to risks arising from foreign exchange rate fluctuations. KONE is also exposed to counterparty risks related to financial institutions through the significant amounts of liquid funds that are deposited with financial institutions in the form of financial investments and in derivatives. Additionally, KONE is exposed to risks related to the liquidity and payment schedules of its customers, which may lead to credit losses. Significant changes in local financial or taxation regulation could also have an impact on KONE's financial performance. For further information on financial risks, please refer to notes 2.4 and 5.3 in the Financial Statements for 2016.

A second plan is targeted for other key personnel of KONE, totaling approximately 450 individuals. The potential reward is based on the annual growth in sales and operating income (EBIT) in both plans. However, KONE's Board of Directors has the possibility to change the basis of the target setting annually. The potential reward is to be paid as a combination of KONE class B shares and a cash payment equivalent to the taxes and similar charges that are incurred from the receipt of shares. Electricity price forward contracts	1.3	2.1	1.6

The fair values of foreign exchange forward contracts and swaps as well as the fair values of cross-currency swaps are measured based on price information derived from active markets and commonly used valuation methods (fair value hierarchy level 2). For electricity price forward contracts, there exists a stock exchange price.

The fair values are represented on the balance sheet on a gross basis and can be set off on conditional terms. No collaterals or pledges have been given as a security against any liabilities or received against any assets arising from derivatives or other financial instruments. Financial contracts are executed only with counterparties that have high credit ratings. The credit risk of these counterparties as well as the present creditworthiness of KONE are considered when calculating the fair values of outstanding financial assets and liabilities.

INVESTMENTS

The shares held include a 19.9% holding in Toshiba Elevator and Building Systems Corporation (TELC). TELC is an investment in equity instruments that does not have a quoted price in an active market. The fair value of TELC shares cannot be reliably measured because the range of reasonable fair value measurements is significant and the probabilities of the various estimates cannot be reasonably assessed. TELC is classified as an available-for-sale investment and measured at cost.

Investments include also non-current loans receivable and smaller available-for-sale investments in other companies without public quotation. These investments are measured at cost since the fair values cannot be reliably measured.
